RE: Campus Climate Survey Roll-out is Underway! And New Updates

I am pleased to report on the successful roll-out of UC Santa Barbara’s Campus Climate Survey that began last week (January 3rd). Let me begin by thanking all you who have completed the survey thus far. And while we are off to a good start, we really need everyone to participate as soon as possible. That way, we can assess how close we are to achieving the needed 30% participation rate that will make our survey valid. Of course, we are striving to surpass this minimum and achieve a much stronger rate of participation, which we can easily accomplish with your help. We are counting on you!

Now, for the updates; first of all, if you have NOT received the survey invitation email and you have multiple email accounts, please look in ALL your accounts (including Spam) before contacting us. Your survey invitation is likely in one of them. If not, please contact us immediately at: <campus.climate@evc.ucsb.edu>. Finally, we want to hear from all members of the UC Santa Barbara community. So, please, take a few minutes to complete the survey, and do accept our appreciation in advance.

Answer the CALL, and help make our campus a more healthy, welcoming, and inclusive environment in which to work, live and learn. Thank you, and Happy 2013!
